DETAILED ITINERARY

Feb 24–25 ~ Travel to Delhi, IndiaFeb 26 ~ Arrive in Delhi, India

Arrive in Delhi, India from our Nepal trip (<https://cheesemans.com/trips/nepal-feb2022>) or from home. Our local agent will transfer you from the airport to the hotel. If you would like to arrive earlier, we can arrange divergent airport transfer and extra nights.

Feb 27 ~ Train ride to Ranthambhore National Park

Enjoy a big breakfast at the hotel before you transfer to board a train for the five-hour ride to Ranthambhore National Park in Rajasthan, where you will spend the next five days looking for tigers and other wildlife.

Feb 28–Mar 4 ~ Game drives in Ranthambhore National Park

Ranthambore National Park is famous for its tigers, as it's one of the best places in the country to see these majestic predators in the wild. The varied topography of the park is home to many mammals, including predators like jackal, mongoose, sloth bear, and leopard, but the main attraction is tigers. Surrounded by the Vindhya and Aravali hill ranges and located near the outer fringes of the Thar Desert, Ranthambore offers the best of the desert lands.

Mar 5 ~ Drive to Keoladeo National Park

After checking out from the hotel, head out for five-hour drive to Bharatpur situated next to the World Heritage Site, Keoladeo National Park. Your hotel is on 12 acres in a 200-year-old former maharajas heritage garden with abundant bird life.

In the afternoon, you'll head for the marshes of Keoladeo Ghana National Park, its official name. Keolade is the ancient Hindu temple in the center of the park, and Ghana refers to the dense forest of former times. Before becoming a national park, former maharajas protected the marshlands in the late nineteenth century, when it was created for duck hunting. Most of India's wildlife reserves were once hunting reserves and this was the best duck hunting reserve until it became a national park where hunting was prohibited. You'll ride in rickshaws around the bunds (embankments) to the best places for observing birds and mammals. Look for sambar, nilgai, and chital (spotted deer) in woodlands, grasslands, and in the shallow waters of the wetlands. If the weather is right, large Indian rock pythons come out of their underground hiding places to sun themselves.

Mar 6 ~ Morning in Keoladeo National Park and drive to Agra

Spend your last morning in Keoladeo National Park observing wildlife. Take rickshaws around the bunds (embankments) to the far reaches of the park with stops along the way for great photography, where you may find darters, cormorants, ducks, geese, egrets, eagles, hawks, falcons, owls, and dozens of other birds. After lunch, drive two hours to Agra.

Mar 7 ~ Sunrise at the Taj Mahal and train ride to Khajuraho

Get up early to arrive at the Taj Mahal for sunrise – the most magnificent, stunning time of day with less people and fantastic photo opportunities. Built by Emperor Shah Jahan in memory of his beloved consort Mumtaz Mahal, this mausoleum is pure white marble. More than 20,000 people worked on the buildings and grounds, combining Persian, Turkish, Indian, and Islamic architectural styles, taking 22 years to complete! It is truly one of the Seven Wonders of the World. The surrounding grounds are home to Eurasian hoopoe, purple sunbird, green bee-eater, several species of doves, and other birds. Return to the hotel for a late breakfast before catching a train for a nine-hour journey to Khajuraho.

Mar 8 ~ Khajuraho temples and drive to Bandhavgarh National Park

Khajuraho is known not only for its temples' symmetry and design, but also for the intricate and erotic carvings on their walls, which are among the most creative examples of Indian architecture. Only 22 of 85 temples built between 950 and 1050 during the Hindu dynasty of the Chandela Rajputs remain today. Carvings depict griffins, nymphs, beasts, revolting demons, gods in cosmic evolution, fear, doubt, jealousy, ardent love, and consummate passion to name a few. Many of the temples are dedicated to the Hindu deities Brahma, Vishnu, and Shiva. The most magnificent, the Kandariya Mahadeo Temple, is dedicated to Lord Shiva, representing Chandela art at its zenith.

After lunch, embark on the five-hour drive to Bandhavgarh, stopping to look for some waterbirds alongside a lake. Arrive in time for dinner at your lodge.

Mar 9–12 ~ Search for wildlife in Bandhavgarh National Park

Much less visited Bandhavgarh National Park is full of fascinating historical monuments and wildlife. Because of the heat during this time of year, the tigers tend to gather at the water holes. With hills, valley, rivers, marshes, and meadows, the vegetative biodiversity in Bandhavgarh is unique. Tigers are the keystone species, but 34 mammal species, 260 bird species, and 70 butterfly species also call it home. The temples in the park also have tenth century rock carvings of the incarnations of Vishnu and among the temple rocks you may find blue rock-thrushes, crag-martins, and other birds.

You'll spend the mornings and afternoons (one afternoon you will have a bird walk as the park is closed that day) game driving by open jeep with a break in the middle of the day for walking, lunch, and rest. You'll depart early enough to be at the national park gates when they open at dawn. While we cannot guarantee that you'll find tigers each day, you will spend as much time in nature to increase your chances! You may find Indian gazelles (chinkara) grazing in the grassland areas with four-horned antelope (chowsingha), and nilgai (also known as blue cow and blue bull – the largest of the Asian antelopes). Rhesus monkey and the northern plains gray (Hanuman) langur are common in the park. The birding around the lodge is outstanding with parakeets, hornbills, minivets, leafbirds, flycatchers, and others. Where allowed, you will get to take walks.

Mar 13 ~ Morning game drive and drive to Jabalpur

Spend the last morning on a game drive in the park, enjoy a late breakfast, and then embark on a four-hour drive to Jabalpur, stopping for lunch on the way, and then fly to Delhi.

Mar 14 ~ Fly homeward

Transfer to the airport for flights homeward.

Mar 15 ~ Arrive home
