Cheesemans' Ecology Safaris carefully selects leaders who are experts in their field to ensure that your experience is the best it can be. One leader with an assistant guide(s) will provide a range of expertise for your trip.

Josefina 'Josie' Nahoe Mulloy

Josie is the daughter of a Rapa Nui father and an American mother, and granddaughter of American archeologist William Mulloy who is responsible for most of the island's archeological restoration. She offers unique perspective, insight, and personal history to Easter Island. After growing up and receiving an education in the US, she relocated to Easter Island and shortly thereafter received Top Guide of the Year in all of Chile. She is regarded not only as the one of most insightful guides on the island, but also the most fun, and she looks forward to sharing the mystery of Rapa Nui with you.

DETAILED ITINERARY

Nov 20 ~ Travel to Santiago, Chile

Fly into Santiago from our Pumas trip and stay at the Holiday Inn Santiago Airport, conveniently located for the next day's early flight to Easter Island.

Nov 21 ~ Fly to Easter Island and explore Ahu Tahai and Ahu Akivi

Fly 2,360mi across the Pacific Ocean to Easter Island where Josie, your Easter Island leader, will meet you to begin exploring this famous island. Although small, taking less than an hour to drive from one end to the other, this island is packed with rich cultural history.

Historic sites are abundant around the island, each featuring unique stories and photo opportunities. Visit the sites listed below and end the day with a sunset photography session of the moai at Ahu Tahai.

Ahu Tahai

Located within walking distance of your lodge, this site contains three ahu (from north to south): Ko Te Riku (moai with restored eyes), Tahai, and Vai Ure.

Ahu Akivi

One of the few ahu built in the interior of the island rather than on the coast, Ahu Akivi's seven moai look out towards the ocean, directly facing the sun during the spring and autumn equinox. Oral tradition says the moai at Ahu Akivi represent the young explorers sent to investigate the island before it was colonized.

Nov 22 ~ Cultural sites and boat trip

You'll tour the following cultural sites, and weather permitting, enjoy an afternoon boat trip to the motus (islets). Due to current requirements, one-half of the group will embark on the afternoon boat trip today, and the second half of the group will go the following day.

Rano Raraku and Puna Pau

Rano Raraku is an extinct volcano that contains Puna Pau, the quarry from which all moai were carved. Half-finished or half-buried statues lie all around the site, each with its own unique design or face.

Ahu Tongariki

The largest restored ahu on Easter Island with fifteen moai includes the heaviest ever erected on the island.

Ahu Akahanga

This ahu (platform) is the burial site of the first king of Easter Island. In most ahu, the moai lie face down, but here you can find them both face-up and face-down.

Nov 23 ~ Cultural sites and photograph moai at sunset

After visiting the following cultural sites, the second half of the group will embark on their afternoon boat trip.

Orongo village and petroglyphs

Situated high on a cliff overlooking the motus on the southwest end of Easter Island, Orongo is a stone village, ceremonial center, and traditional site of the Tangata Manu, a dangerous annual competition between the clans of Easter Island. Last held in 1867, the Tangata Manu competition began when the islanders expected sooty terns to return to nest. Each clan leader chose a member to race and be the first to get and return a sooty tern egg. Contestants scrambled down the steep rock face, braved sharks while swimming across to Motu Nui, then waited on the islet, often for days or weeks, until a sooty tern laid an egg. Once the first egg was found, the contestant would take the egg and race back, all while keeping the egg intact in a reed basket attached to his forehead. The winning clan leader gained prestige and power as the birdman, shaved his head, and lived in ceremonial seclusion for a year while his clan gained sole rights to collect the eggs and birds of Motu Nui for the season. Look along the cliff for petroglyphs revealing the famous birdman motif.

Ahu Vinapu

The ceremonial center of Vinapu includes one of the larger ahu on the island, which has extraordinary stonemasonry consisting of large and carefully fitted slabs of basalt, reminiscent of those of the Incas in Peru.

Nov 24 ~ Photograph the moai at sunrise; fly back to Santiago and depart for home

Get an early start to witness the moai at sunrise, bathed in the soft hues of dawn. Enjoy free time to explore before your flight back to Santiago in the afternoon.
