SAFARI OVERVIEW

Track sleek and stealthy pumas at the exclusive Estancia Laguna Amarga with private access to premier wildlife territories famed for hosting one of the densest wild puma populations. Navigate rugged terrains in 4X4's and take guided walks at a leisurely pace, ensuring an unforgettable experience. The itinerary aligns with peak puma activity at dawn and dusk, maximizing chances to witness these imperial predators. Beyond pumas, encounter guanacos, Andean deer, Patagonian hog-nosed skunks, and elusive foxes. Complete your journey with privileged access to another private estancia: Olga Teresa Ranch. You will have the unique opportunity to view the largest concentration of Andean Condors. This intimate expedition, set against the stunning backdrop of the towering peaks of Torres del Paine, promises a profound connection with nature's untamed beauty.

LEADER

Matias Ballarini

Originally from Santiago, Matias moved to Patagonia in 2004 and now lives in Punta Arenas, so he can spend more time enjoying nature and the outdoors. He has guided trips to King George Island, Buenos Aires, Brazil, the Chilean Lake District, and Patagonia. He works with nonprofit organizations that help conserve the local environment and ecosystems. Because he loves to expand his knowledge of biodiversity, photography, environmental interpretation, and conservation, you may find him in a course offered by the local universities.

DETAILED ITINERARY

Nov 12 ~ Travel to Punta Arenas, Chile or El Calafate, Argentina.

You may either fly into Punta Arenas or El Carafe depending on cost and convenience. The drive from Punta Arenas to El Carafe is about 3 hours.

Nov 13 ~ Arrive in Punta Arenas or El Calafate.

If arriving from our South Georgia and Antarctic Peninsula trip, you will take a direct flight to El Calafate. There are no direct flights from Ushuaia to Punta Arenas. Our local agent will transfer you from the airport to the hotel. If you would like to arrive earlier, we can arrange divergent airport transfers and extra nights.

Nov 14 ~ Transfer to Cerro Castillo and begin exploring Torres del Paine along the way.

During your journey to the park, you will look for guanaco, southern grey fox, and Patagonian skunk while enjoying your first views of southern beech (Nothofagus) forest. While visiting the valleys, you will be given a geological interpretation of the origins of the dramatic backdrop of Torres del Paine, one of the finest natural spectacles in Patagonia.

Nov 15 – 18 ~ Spend 4 days puma trekking at Laguna Amarga Ranch.

You will explore the puma hunting grounds located on the eastern flank of the park and throughout the property of Estancia Laguna Amarga, where exclusive access and a strong rapport with the owners provide a unique advantage. This area, encompassing the northern coast of Sarmiento Lake, Laguna Amarga, and Laguna Azul, is renowned for its dense puma population, one of the largest concentrations in the wild.

With the aid of a rugged 4x4 vehicle, you will navigate the ranch, although the adventure also includes easy to moderate walks, demanding a basic level of fitness to keep pace. The terrain, while generally manageable, may present altitude variations between 50-250m (160-1,000ft), but the group will proceed at a leisurely and steady rate. The highest elevation reached during this journey will be 300m (1,000ft) above sea level.

Pumas are most active at night, early in the mornings, and late in the evenings. Thus, the itinerary is designed around these peak times, allowing observation of these magnificent creatures as they patrol their territory, hunt guanacos and other prey, interact with their offspring, or travel between hunting grounds and dens. Each day will feature two sessions: a morning session and an evening session, each approximately 4 hours long. Midday puma watching will be avoided to prevent disturbing the animals during their critical resting and recuperating periods after a night of hunting.

Nov 19 ~ Spend the morning in Torres del Paine and visit Andean Condors at the Olga Teresa Ranch.

After a final morning enjoying Torres del Paine, you'll spend the afternoon at Olga Teresa Ranch which boasts the world's largest concentration of Andean Condor roosts. The steep cliffs host as many as 100 birds with excellent access for viewing and photography, and you'll have a chance to climb to the top of Cerro Palomares, a 700-foot-high hill to view the condors. Olga Teresa Ranch is a protected space for these beautiful birds, as well as an important research site.

Conservation

Our company ethos has always regarded conservation as inseparable from responsible tourism. We struggle with the dilemma that traveling worldwide expends climate-changing carbon. However, we wholeheartedly believe that traveling with us will cultivate your passion for conserving our beautiful world while stimulating each destination's local economy. We encourage you to explore the various ways in which Cheesemans' operates within this context:

- Cheesemans' Trips are Carbon Neutral.
- Offsetting your Travel to/from our Trip: We ask you to pledge to offset the carbon emissions for your travel to and from our trips. You can purchase offsets with most airlines (Delta includes them automatically), use our handy carbon calculator and donate to Sustainable Travel International, or contribute to your favorite offsetting organization.
